

STUART L. ISLER, DMD • GENERAL DENTISTRY

In practice since 1973, Dr. Stuart Isler has earned a reputation as a world-renowned dentist. At his offices in Denville and Manhattan, he works with orthodontist Dr. Michael Arvystas and a knowledgeable five-woman team, all of whom have been with the practice for more than 30 years. Patients become long-term family members, even if they're only seeking cosmetic procedures. "My philosophy is to provide meticulous and beautiful dentistry in a gorgeous office with a loving staff," Dr. Isler says.

A leader in continuing education, he created and administers the Academy of Comprehensive Dental Studies, which has educated thousands of New Jersey dentists on a monthly basis for 41 years. He also is the only general practitioner in the state elected to membership in the American Academy of Esthetic Dentistry, a highly selective international group of 120 dentists.

Dr. Isler teaches cosmetic dentistry to faculty and graduate students at NYU College of Dentistry, Temple University School of Dentistry and the University of Pennsylvania School of Dental Medicine, his alma mater. In addition, he lectures and provides educational programs worldwide, from Paris to Panama and Johannesburg to Jerusalem. A much sought-after expert in his field, he has been featured in numerous women's magazines including Elle, W, and Cosmopolitan.

"My practice distinguishes itself because of our emphasis on providing dentistry for active seniors," Dr. Isler says. "Due to their longer lives, seniors have unique tooth and gum issues, as shown by our clinical research and extensive experience."
